WYOMING
RURAL HEALTH TRANSFORMATION

As of October 2026, funding allocations, competitive applications, and awards have been completed for Year 1 of Wyoming's $205 million Rural Health Transformation Program (RHTP). Wyoming's federally-approved RHTP plan consists of four major initiatives, described below. Visit the RHTP website at health.wyo.gov to see a full listing of approved awardees for Year 1.

1. Improving Access to Emergency Medical Care ($91.8 million of the total award)
   This initiative prioritizes financial sustainability of Wyoming's small critical access hospitals and rural and frontier ambulance services. Put simply, in our low-population state, high-fixed cost healthcare services and infrastructure that are core to our communities should not have to depend on volume to be sustainable.

   RHTP offers an opportunity to change how we deliver and pay for basic care in rural and frontier areas, with a focus on long-term sustainability. Within this initiative, the Critical Access Hospital Basic incentive program and the EMS Regionalization program provide funding to shore up basic care -- like labor and delivery, EMS, and trauma services -- while also creating funding opportunities to encourage common sense partnership and collaboration to make services more sustainable.

2. Increasing Rural Workforce Supply ($56.3 million of the total award)
   This initiative seeks to develop a supply of essential healthcare workforce in Wyoming using a combination of individual education awards and grants to organizations who provide necessary education and training, like Wyoming's community colleges. Growing Wyoming's supply of nurses, EMTs, behavioral health workforce, and physicians is a top priority within this initiative.

   The department has contracted with one fiscal agent for the majority of this initiative so that individuals, educational institutions, and clinical training sites will have opportunities to apply for funding in the coming months and throughout 2027.

3. Health Technology Transformation ($16.9 million of the total award)
   This initiative leverages investments in technology to help groups of hospitals and rural health providers care for people closer to home, manage chronic diseases, increase access to clinical consults, improve healthcare effectiveness through collaboration, and deepen relationships between patients and their providers. Numerous awards have been made for Year 1 and additional opportunities will be made available in Year 2.

4. Make Wyoming Health Again ($38.6 million of the total award)
   The goal of this initiative is to improve Wyomingites' metabolic, behavioral and cardiovascular health with clinical and non-clinical interventions such as expanding primary care that is integrated with behavioral health and providing support for healthy diet and exercise programs and infrastructure.

Wyoming's focus remains on ensuring that RHTP dollars go directly to our providers and communities. To that end, the department has kept its administrative costs for RHTP to 0.7% of the total award.

Wyoming's Rural Health Transformation Program is supported by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) as part of a financial assistance award totaling $205,004,742.95 in Budget Period 1, with 100 percent funded by CMS/HHS.
